

General Information

If you would like to publish your doctoral thesis online according to the doctoral regulations applying to you, EPub Bayreuth, the document and publication server of the University of Bayreuth, is available free of charge at <https://epub.uni-bayreuth.de>. The publication can only take place after the printing permission from the doctoral committee has been obtained.

Before publishing your work on EPub Bayreuth, please ensure that the applying copyright and license law allows you to do so and that you do not infringe the rights of third parties, e.g. publishers. If you have already partially published your doctoral thesis or parts of it at a publishing house, the publisher must agree to the publication on EPub Bayreuth.

If parts of your doctoral thesis are patent pending or in the review process of a journal, please contact one of the persons listed under "Further Information and Contact".

Please upload the electronic version of your doctoral thesis to EPub Bayreuth and send the following documents to the library:

- printing permission issued by the doctoral committee
- signed publishing contract ('Veröffentlichungsvertrag')
- the correct number of printed copies

You can deliver these documents personally or have them handed in by a third party. Please arrange an appointment with one of the persons listed below. It is also possible to mail the documents to the address found under "Further Information and Contact".

Further Information & Contact

Further information on the submission of doctoral theses can be found in our online help for EPub under the item: What do I have to know if I would like to deposit a doctoral thesis?
